ELECTION WATCH GHANA CALLS FOR ENHANCED TRANSPARENCY AND PARTICIPATION IN KPANDAI CONSTITUENCY RERUN ELECTIONS

Accra, Ghana – Election Watch Ghana is deeply concerned about the repeated reruns of elections in certain constituencies and polling stations, notably in Kpandai. These developments not only strain the financial resources of taxpayers but also erode public trust in the electoral process. The impartiality of electoral officers, who are expected to remain neutral facilitators, is critical to ensuring free, fair, and credible elections.

We emphasize that the increasing incidence of reruns reflects gaps in the management and administration of our elections, pointing to a need for urgent reforms. As stakeholders in Ghana's democracy, we urge all actors involved in the democratic process in Kpandai, including the New Patriotic Party (NPP) and the National Democratic Congress (NDC), to actively participate in the upcoming by-elections. Participatory democracy thrives on inclusive engagement, and we encourage all eligible parties to file and contest to strengthen our electoral system.

Election Watch Ghana calls on the Electoral Commission of Ghana to demonstrate greater diligence in its mandate, ensuring strict adherence to electoral guidelines and protocols. We urge the EC to enhance transparency and accountability in the management of elections and address the operational inefficiencies that have evidently contributed to these costly and avoidable reruns.

We believe that collective efforts toward transparent, fair, and participatory elections will fortify Ghana's democracy. We invite all citizens and stakeholders to join us in advocating for electoral reforms that prioritize integrity and public trust.

Sincerely,

Mark Ewusi Arkoh
