GIPA Expands Ghana Club 100 to Honour Champions of Investment and Economic Growth

November 13th, 2026, Accra – The 22nd Edition of the Ghana Club 100 (GC100) Awards scheduled for Wednesday, November 18th, 2026, at the Palms Convention Centre will introduce five discretionary award categories to recognise the institutions and individuals whose contributions are helping to attract investment, create value and strengthen Ghana's competitiveness in the global economy.

The discretionary award categories include the Outstanding FDI Contribution Award, the Investment Facilitation Excellence Award, the Regional Investment Facilitation Leadership Award, the Diaspora Investment Champion Award, and the Inclusive Business and Disability Impact Award. Honourees will be announced at the ceremony.

Organised by the Ghana Investment Promotion Authority (GIPA), this year's awards are being held under the theme "Investing in Ghana's New Economy: Building a Productive Economy that Creates Value and Competes Globally", reflecting Ghana's ambition to accelerate industrialisation, promote value addition, and position the country as a destination for high-quality investment.

About the GC 100 Awards

Established in 1998, the GC 100 Awards have evolved from a ranking system focused largely on financial performance into a comprehensive assessment of corporate excellence encompassing governance, sustainability, tax compliance, employment creation, and Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) standards.

Companies that have featured among the top-ranked firms at various stages of the programme's history include Ashanti Goldfields, Scancom PLC (MTN Ghana), Ghana Commercial Bank, Stanbic Bank Ghana, Gold Fields Ghana, Nestlé Ghana, Kasapreko Company Limited, Newmont Ghana, Toyota Ghana, Unilever Ghana, Produce Buying Company and Enterprise Life Assurance, among others, signalling the awards' longstanding role in recognising businesses that have made significant contributions to Ghana's economic development.

The Awards' credibility is reinforced by an independent ranking process conducted by Ernst & Young (EY) Ghana, the ranking partner for the Ghana Club 100 Awards. The assessment provides an objective evaluation of participating companies and helps ensure the awards' transparency and integrity. This has helped establish the GC 100 as one of the country's most enduring business recognition programmes, consistently spotlighting enterprises that are shaping Ghana's economic future.

Celebrating Business Excellence

The awards ceremony will bring together high-profile guests from government, leading businesses, investors and other key stakeholders for an evening of networking and celebration. Guests can expect performances by some of Ghana's finest entertainers, alongside the presentation of awards recognising the country's outstanding businesses and their achievements.

According to Mr Simon Madjie, Chief Executive Officer of the Ghana Investment Promotion Authority (GIPA), the new awards acknowledge that investment success extends beyond corporate performance. Recognising these efforts helps reinforce investor confidence and showcases the ecosystem that supports business success in Ghana.

"As global competition for investment intensifies, countries must demonstrate not only strong economic potential but also effective institutions and partnerships. These recognitions send a powerful message that Ghana is committed to creating an environment where businesses can thrive, innovate and compete globally," he added.

As Ghana advances its investment and industrial transformation agenda, the 22nd edition of the GC 100 Awards will express strong confidence in the Ghanaian private sector, recognising outstanding corporate achievements and the institutions that enable investment success, while reinforcing the country's vision for a competitive and productive economy.
